Step-Back Trimming Separator Blade Manufacture.

Figure 1.0 below shows the size and position of the separator blade used on the step back trimming templates. This blade is used to separate the layers of material to allow the step back wire to slide between the layers without catching on the material.

The diagram below shows the position of the blade on a Front template. The same dimension applies for a collar jig if the size of the collar allows. The 70mm dimension may have to be revised to suit particular applications.

When a template is made without a fulling bar the separator blade can be hinged from the rear of the template.

Materials Used: Tin
Double Sided Tape
